

Lead Without Burning Out Yourself or Your Team

Sign up for Elective:

MGT 579 Human Sustainability, Winter 2026

- What is Human Sustainability?

It is the ability to sustain performance and well-being over time
Avoiding burnout while continuing to grow, thrive, and lead.

- Why This Class Matters

Protect your energy while advancing your career.
Learn how great leaders keep their teams engaged and healthy.
Gain tools to balance today's results with tomorrow's capacity.

- Some Topics You Will Explore

Mental Health: resilience, self-compassion, and recovery.
Sleep: how it drives performance, judgment, and leadership.
Work & Family Conflict: managing boundaries.
Growth: creating meaningful work and enabling development.

- Course Snapshot

Offered Winter 2026, on-campus at UW Foster in the evening.
Practical, evidence-based, and designed for impact.
Taught by Professor Christopher Barnes, leading researcher of human sustainability

- Takeaway

Build a career that lasts. Learn to sustain yourself—and the people you lead.